Designing Gardens of Sanctuary and Healing

Nature is a sanctuary when we find the environment we love, yet our home garden often isn't as powerful as it could be. Some places we just never want to leave, others we can't leave soon enough. Some will feel safe and protected under a cave like tree while others will yearn for the freedom of big skies. Our minds are powerful, either working with our dreams or against them and to reach them, we need to know ourselves.

Join award winning garden designer Betsy-Sue Clarke for a sumptuous and inspiring journey through the moving stories of how these carefully designed and meaningful
